Discussion following with director Timothy Hines

Featuring Dr. James Blaylock on the Prankful History of War of the Worlds

Timothy Hines directed WAR OF THE WORLDS THE TRUE STORY, which qualified for the 85th Academy Awards.

Hines has been covered in media sources such as The Los Angeles Times, The Boston Globe, New York Post, Fox News, NBC News, Variety, Forbes, BusinessWeek, The San Francisco Chronicle, SFX Mag, American Screenwriter, Moviemaker Magazine, World Animation News and has been featured in many Sci-Fi anthology books such as the acclaimed, The Saucer Fleet, by Jack Hagerty and Jon Rogers. Among his early accomplishments, Hines won the Starlog Star Search, which was presented by Keir Dullea, star of 2001 A Space Odyssey, and legendary Sci-Fi writer Isaac Asimov.

“War of the Worlds: The True Story’ is clever like Wells. Truly impressive, Hugely inventive and ambitious.” - The Los Angeles Times Review

“Impressive for its technical achievements, Director/editor Hines weaves the various styles of footage together in expert fashion.”

- The Hollywood Reporter Review
