CHAPMANU SCIENCE ON TAP is a series of casual moderated discussions featuring experts who explore the intersection of science and culture. ChapmanU Science on Tap is for science lovers (and novices) in the community who want to enjoy good beer, good food and fascinating conversation. Be among the first 10 attendees 21+ and your first beer is on us.

Monday, 9/14/15 at 6 p.m.
Intersection of Art and Science with Lia Halloran, MFA, assistant professor of art at Chapman University

Tuesday, 10/13/15 at 6 p.m.
Big Data: Fact or Fiction with Erik Linstead, Ph.D., assistant professor of software engineering at Chapman University

Tuesday, 11/10/15 at 6 p.m.
Nanoscience: The Good, the Bad and The Ugly with Andrew Lyon, Ph.D., professor of chemistry and dean at Chapman University